YUGO-SLAVIA ANGERED BY ITALY'S ATTITUDE

ROME'S ALLEGED UNFRIENDLINESS

ITALIAN GARRISON REINFORCED

TERRORIST TELLS OF CROATIAN PLOTS

Like a bear, baited to desperation, turning fiercely from one supposed enemy to another, Yugo-Slavia stands to-day.

Belgrade is aroused over the allegedly unfriendly attitude of Italy and in its present feverish state the country is apt to take alarm at such acts as the heavy reinforcing of the garrison at Zara, Adriatic seaport, by the Italians.

The existence of an anti-Yugo-Slavian terrorist organisation, with headquarters in Hungary, has again been brought to the attention of authorities, and Belgrade will probably make some protest to Geneva. One of the confederates of the man who slew King Alexander has confessed to having been trained in Hungary for terrorist activities.

SHELTER IN HUNGARY

Belgrade, Oct. 12. Official quarters here are most uneasy regarding the attitude of Italy towards Yugo-Slavia.

It is learned that the Government to-day is making representations to Rome with regard to what are considered unfriendly comments in Italian broadcasts on the situation in Yugo-Slavia.

The particular cause for the Yugo-Slavian complaint it seems, is the alleged announcement over an Italian radio circuit yesterday that it was being suggested that disruption was imminent.

It is confidently hoped that the matter will be satisfactorily settled.

GRAVE SUSPICIONS.

Meanwhile, however, it is reported that the Italian garrison at the Adriatic port of Zara has been strongly reinforced. This is regarded here as unnecessary and not tending to improve Italo-Yugo-Slavian relations.

It is also firmly believed that Italians are supporting Croatian revolutionaries.—Reuter.

PROTEST EXPECTED.

Geneva, Oct. 12.

The possibility of strong Yugo-Slavian representations to Hungary is envisaged as the result of a confession made by a Croat named Novak, arrested at Thonon, France, of the part he played in the assassination of King Alexander at Marseilles.

He was arrested to-day on suspicion and made his confession to-day.

SENTENCED TO DEATH.

Novak said his real name was Hospice and that he had been sentenced to death for a series of murders in Yugo-Slavia, but when he was out of the country. He therefore took shelter in a refugee camp in Hungary.

There, he said, he was trained in terrorist activities and having shown some aptitude was given a special mission and sent with two others, both Croats, to Zurich.

In Zurich the plotters were joined by the arch-assassin Kelenen, and another Croat, Shilny.

All of them went to Fontainebleau, where they split into two groups. Hospice and two others going to Paris, while Kelenen and Shilny went to Marseilles.

READY TO KILL.

Hospice admitted to police that if he had received orders to "execute" the King of Yugo-Slavia he would not have hesitated to carry them out.

Yugo-Slavia is almost sure to bring the matter to the notice of the League of Nations, especially as the Yugo-Slavian government only last April drew the attention of the League to the fact that the Croat refugees in Hungary had formed an organisation for pur-

GERMANY AGAIN ACCUSED

Socialist Papers Suspended

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1891. Received, October 12, 2.10 a.m.)

Saarbrücken, Oct. 12. For attributing the Marseilles assassination of King Alexander to German influence, two Socialist and Communist newspapers were ordered to suspend publication to-day.

One paper wrote: "The bullets were fired in Marseilles but made in Germany."—Reuter Special.

HAD THREE PLANS.

The conspirators are said to have had three plans for the murder of King Alexander. If the Marseilles outrage had failed an attempt would have been made to wreck the royal train near Lyons and finally, if those plans also went amiss, he would have been attacked with pistols and bombs in Paris.—Reuter.

ARRESTED IN ENGLAND.

Calais, Oct. 12. A man with a passport bearing the name Wilhelm Willinger, believed to be a suspected accomplice of Kelenen, who escaped from police at Fontainebleau, was arrested here while trying to stow away on a cargo boat.—Reuter.

BRITAIN'S SALUTE.

London, Oct. 12. The British Mediterranean Fleet, which is at present visiting Yugo-Slavian ports, will take this opportunity to meet the Yugo-Slavia destroyer Dubrovnik off Split and render appropriate naval honours to the late King Alexander, whose body which is being carried home on the Dubrovnik and will be disembarked at that port on way to Belgrade.

It was announced to-night that the Duke of Kent will represent His Majesty King George V at the funeral of King Alexander.

His Highness will be accompanied by General Sir Walter Braithwaite, representing the British Army, and by Major Butler, Quartermaster to the Duke, and Major Arnold.—British Wireless.

TORIES QUARREL OVER INDIA

Mr. Chamberlain's Move To Placate Die-Hards

SOCIALISM REAL DANGER

London, Oct. 12. A reference to last week's India discussion, at the Conservative Party's conference in Bristol, was made by Mr. Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, in a speech to Conservatives at Edgbaston to-day.

Mr. Chamberlain said it must be remembered that it would be quite possible that the final conclusions on India might be so different from those contained in the White Paper that a new situation would have arisen. It would therefore be premature and absurd to discuss the White Paper when they did not know whether it was going to be the real foundation of the final proposals.

Conservatives, said Mr. Chamberlain, should recollect that if, in consequence of differences in the Party, the Socialists were allowed to come in, Mr. Lansbury had said they would immediately call a Constituent Assembly in India and hand over thereto the formation of a Constitution for India.

"Those who talk about the Government's proposals constituting a surrender to India," said Mr. Chamberlain, "should recollect that the greatest danger of surrender lies, not in any Government proposals, but in the possible advent of a Socialist Government."

Referring to the Government's armaments programme, Mr. Chamberlain hoped that the new expenditure involved would not be so great in any one year as to cripple Britain's resources. He added that Britain would not relax her efforts to prevent a general building up of armaments.—Reuter.

FINAL PLANS FOR AIR RACE

MACHINES TO START FROM MILDENHALL

COMPETING PILOTS BANQUET

London, Oct. 12.

Plans for the start, on October 20, of the great air race to Australia, for Sir Macpherson Robertson's trophy, are being completed at Mildenhall, Suffolk, one of the largest aerodromes in England.

Even the heaviest planes in the race should experience no take-off difficulties, for runways of about 1,500 yards are available, and as the surrounding country is flat, the approaches are excellent.

All of the competitors for the race, which is being organised by the Royal Aero Club, have not yet arrived in England, but they must assemble by Sunday, when the machines will be weighed and inspected and a meeting of pilots will be held to discuss the starting arrangements.

Meanwhile, the pilots already in England are to be the guests of the Club at a banquet this evening, presided over by Lord Gorell, to which many distinguished people, including the American Ambassador, Mr. R. ANTARCTIC ADVENTURE

MISSION TO FAR WHALING GROUND

London, Oct. 12.

The Royal research ship William Scoresby, a small vessel of the trawler type specially built for scientific whaling observations in the Antarctic, is now loading stores in the River Thames prior to her departure, about 16th inst., on her fourth commission.

After calling at the Cape, she will proceed to the ice edge in the neighbourhood of Bouvet Island and Endorbyland, which are the hunting grounds of the floating whale factories, and, if practicable, to other areas where whales may be found.

It is expected that she will be on the whaling grounds three months without touching port. The experiments to be undertaken are part of a general scheme of investigations whereon the Royal research ships Discovery and Discovery II, as well as the William Scoresby, have been employed on previous commissions, and the operations this season are specially directed to determining the migration of whales.

The investigations are controlled by a committee acting on behalf of the Falkland Islands Government, under instructions from the Secretary for the Colonies. The William Scoresby is expected to return in the Spring, as will the Discovery II, which sailed from London in October last year and is at present actively engaged in research work in the south.—British Wireless.

Rouge Magic

All illusions are not created on the stage.

Women who know the little subtleties of make-up create illusions every day. With rouge, for example, they make long faces look like round ones—short ones like long ones—thin ones like fat ones.

Here's how:

If the face is round apply the rouge on the cheekbone and blend downward. This creates an illusion of length. Then, blend the rouge toward the nose to lessen the highlight at the center of the face to make it appear more oval.

For a thin face reverse the tactics by blending the rouge outward keeping the colour away from the center of the face. This creates an illusion of breadth.

If the cheekbones are high, avoid emphasis by applying the rouge very sparingly at this point and blending downward avoiding rouging a hollow if there is one.

FILMLAND NEWS

14 British Pictures For Broadway

BREAKING BARRIER

Fourteen British talking pictures are to be shown on Broadway during the coming season.

This represents the most sensational success yet achieved by the British film industry in the United States, and is all the more remarkable since the talking pictures to be shown are all the product of one British organization.

The contracts which have been signed in respect of these talking pictures are the first results of the decision of C. M. Woolf, managing director of the Gaumont-British Corporation, to make arrangements for the release throughout the United States of the productions of the studios at Shepherd's Bush and Islington.

Two of the most important theatres in New York, the Roxy Cinema and the music hall, Radio City, have undertaken to show the pictures.

On October 4 the Radio City will present "Jew Sues," the most expensive film ever made at Shepherd's Bush. This picture will be shown simultaneously in Toronto and in London.

"Chu Chin Chow" will open at the Roxy on the following day.

THE OTHER CHOICES.

Other films to be shown on Broadway within the next few months will include "Evergreen," with Jessie Matthews; "Princess Charming," starring Evelyn Laye; "Little Friend," with the new star, Nova Pilbeam; "The Iron Duke," starring George Arliss; and "Jack Abney," starring Jack Hulbert.

The full significance of this news lies in the fact that the presentation of a talking picture on Broadway is automatically followed by its showing throughout the United States.

The success of the enterprise, which C. M. Woolf began only a few weeks ago, is therefore already assured, and this is a matter of the greatest possible importance to the future of the British film industry, since Mr. Woolf, in announcing this enterprise, stated that he would be glad to include among the talking pictures he presented in the United States the productions of any British studio.

It may be said to-day that he has completely broken down the "great film barrier" which hitherto has prevented British talking pictures from being shown in the United States. Henceforth British films will be shown in the United States on the same basis as American films are shown in Britain.

NO OXFORD ACCENT.

A Gaumont-British official stated:

"This arrangement will lead to the alteration of the whole trend of film production in this country, and it will also have an effect upon employment in the industry. All British producers will benefit from the trail which we are burning."

The arrangement will also have an effect on the type of English spoken in films. The English producers will probably compromise, so that the Oxford accent may disappear from the cinema."

GEORGE ARLISS AS PEPYS?

Although George Arliss has been at work at the Gaumont-British studios at Shepherd's Bush on the filming of his first British talking picture, "The Iron Duke," already preparations are being made for the two further talking pictures in which he is to star for Gaumont-British next year, and

NEW TEA GOWN

Autumn Model In Blue Velvet And Lace

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Here is a charming tea-gown model, expressed in soft blue velvet and lace. The gauging forms an effective trimming.

NET CURTAINS

CURTAINS of coloured net are very popular. They possess the advantage of making an effective screen for the windows, and obstructing the inquisitive gaze of passers-by without taking away the view from those inside the rooms.

Net curtains do not get soiled easily, and they should not be washed unless they are really dirty, as the longer they are able to be kept clean without washing the better. If their colours are chosen wisely they can give colour to a dark room, and warmth to a cold one.

Curtains of golden net, for instance, stretched across the windows of a sunless room will give that room the appearance of sunlight, and rose-coloured curtains will give warmth, while if you want to introduce a cool note, have curtains every day to keep them free from dust, and brush them lightly with a soft brush about once a week. When they have to be washed, damp them slightly and stretch them a little lengthways and across. This will help to counteract shrinkage during the wash. Net curtains may be hung up in their proper places while they are still damp.

One complete story has been written.

When "The Iron Duke" is finished George Arliss will go to Hollywood to star in "Cardinal Richelieu," and is expected back in London in May.

Meantime, Leslie Gordon has written a story of the life of Samuel Pepys expressly for him. This drama does not deal with the "curious fellow" who recorded the gossip of his day, but with the statesman who is described in Admiralty records as "a man of extraordinary knowledge, of great talent, and the most indefatigable industry."

Leslie Gordon's narrative begins with the Great Fire of London and the Great Plague, during which Samuel Pepys, as Surveyor of Victualling for the Fleet, then at war with Holland, remained at his post in London when many others

FRANCO-GERMAN CO-OPERATION

CULTURAL CONTACT OF VALUE

At the second Franco-German exchange concert, Professor Hermann Abendroth conducted the Paris National Orchestra in the French capital.

The programme consisted of compositions by Wagner, Max Reger, and Beethoven. The very first item, the overture to the Flying Dutchman, evoked tremendous applause on the part of the large audience. The Erda scene from "The Rhinegold" was magnificently interpreted by Margarete Klose, of the Berlin State Opera.

Reger's "An die Hoffnung," composed for contralto with orchestra accompaniment, one of the finest and most inspired works of the composer, had so far been practically unknown in Paris, according to the introductory words spoken by the announcer, so that it may be expected that the brilliant rendering of this fine piece has brought about a change in this respect.

The admirable tone of the orchestra made a deep impression upon the audience when the Parsifal prelude was played, the woodwinds and the low notes of the brass instruments being particularly sympathetic. It goes without saying that the overture to "The Master Singers" formed part of the programme—a composition especially congenial to the conductor.

of his position had fled to the country.

The story introduces Mrs. Elizabeth Pepys, William Hewer, who was Pepys' personal secretary, Charles II., the Duke of York, and Louise de Keroualle, who was the King's favourite.

The only difficulty is that George Arliss has not yet agreed to the subject, not because he is opposed to it, but because he is busy with "The Iron Duke," and he insists on concentrating on one thing at a time.

Michael Balcan, director of production at Shepherd's Bush, is very enthusiastic regarding Pepys and hopes the famous actor will receive the suggestion favourably as soon as he has time to examine it, since many months of research and preparation will be entailed in the production of such a subject.

CLARK GABLE TO BE BUSY.

Clark Gable has signed to make five new pictures in the next five months.

In that time he will have been paid something like £75,000 in salary, his present figures being £15,000 a film.

His new films are "Mutiny on the Bounty," with Wallace Beery; "His Brother's Wife," and "China Seas," with Jean Harlow; "Riff-raff," with Gloria Swanson; and "It Had to Happen," with Constance Bennett.

He started as a call boy in an Ohio theatre, and was once playing on tour fourteen stage shows a week for 7s. 6d. Nobody noticed him in silent pictures. In the old "Merry Widow" nine years ago he was an "extra" soldier at £1 a day.

The vogue of gangster films gave him his big chance, and when these waned his career was considered finished—until he suddenly became a successful screen lover.

For years he was rejected for lover roles because his hair did not curl and his ears stuck out. Now the demand for him exceeds the supply, and he receives 500 letters a day from admirers.

Since 1931 he has been leading man to Greta Garbo, Norma Shearer, Marion Davis, Joan Crawford, Jean Harlow, Claudette Colbert, and Helen Hayes.

GIRL'S APPEAL FAILS

Heiress Must Go To Prison

Stated to be an heiress to £40,000, which would come to her when she reached the age of 21, Miss Dorothy Sibley (18) unsuccessfully appealed at the London Sessions against a sentence of six months' imprisonment passed on her by Mr. May Halkett at Westminster Police Court for obtaining and attempting to obtain goods to the total value of £2, 18s. 9d. by false pretences from a London West End store.

Mr. J. F. Eastwood, supporting the Magistrate's decision, described how Miss Sibley ordered goods in various names in May and June last. The case was adjourned from time to time at the Police Court, where Miss Sibley was represented by various eminent counsel, and the Magistrate referred to it as an "Alice in Wonderland" case.

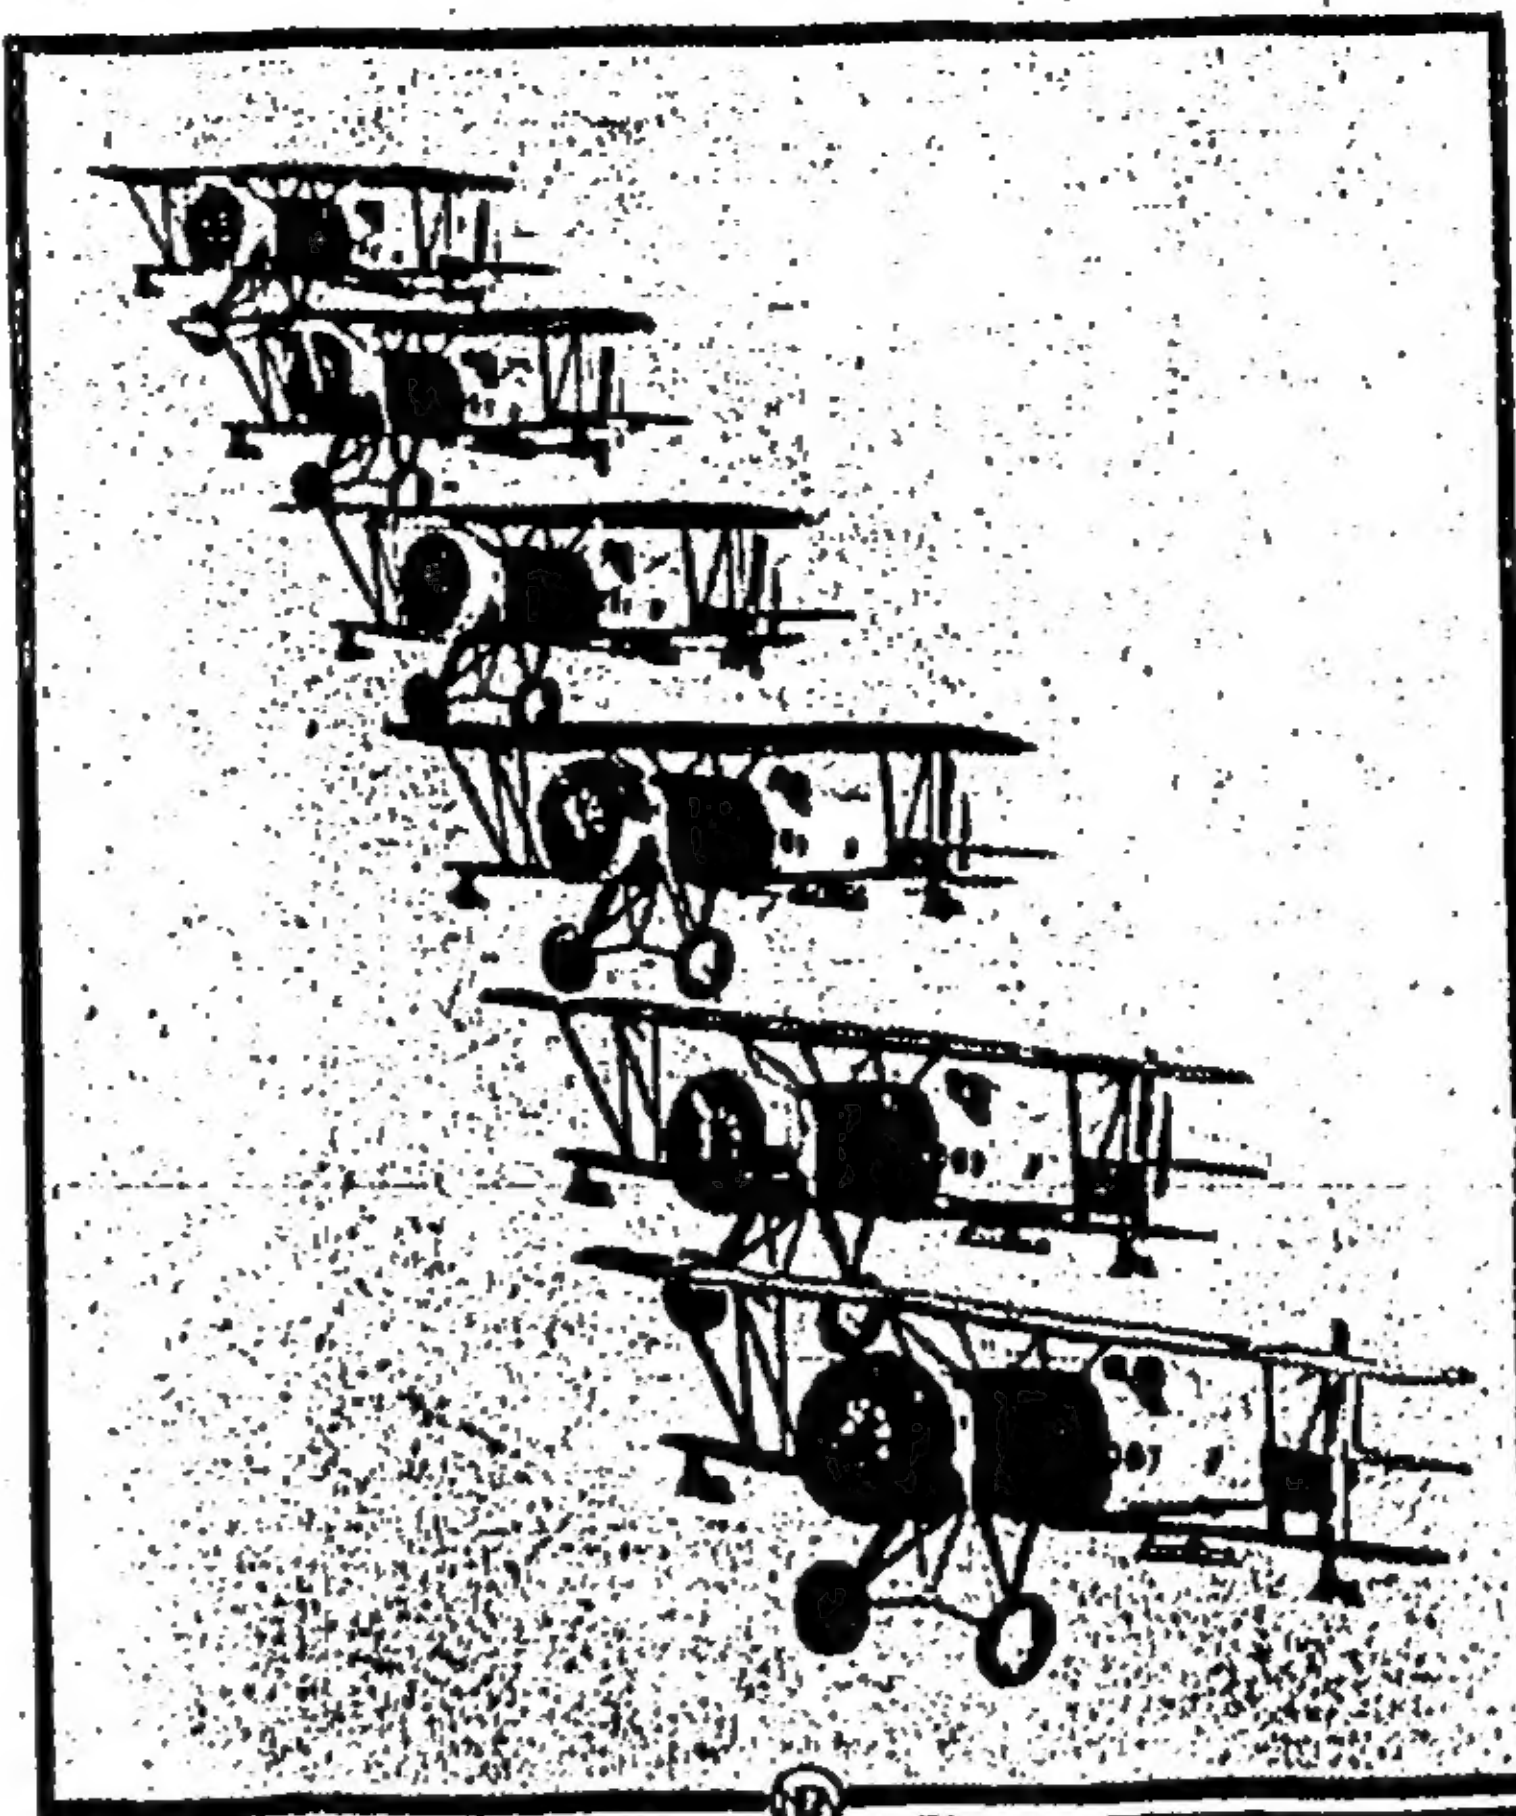

Miss Sibley went to Court in a Rolls-Royce car and later in a Daimler, so that on the face of it she had money. Miss Sibley had been ordered to pay 100 guineas cost at the Police Court, but nothing had been paid, and Mr. Eastwood asked the Court for assistance.

Mr. Laurence Vince, defending, said Miss Sibley received some money paid out to her from the High Court as a result of damages in an action. She also earned a little money as a dance instructor. When she reached the age of 21 she would receive £40,000 now held in trust. The Rolls-Royce car referred to was only worth £2 and was of old vintage, and the Daimler was hired.

She had a complete answer to all the charges if she had been able to appeal against conviction, which was now impossible on a legal point, because at one stage in the Police Court proceedings she had pleaded guilty.

Announcing the decision of the Court, Sir Percival Clarke, chairman, said that in the opinion of the Bench, Miss Sibley had really had no other course open to her at the Police Court than to plead guilty. "We are satisfied," Sir Percival added, "that this has been a long course of deliberate fraud for which no excuse has been offered to us at all. The appeal must be dismissed with costs."

Luminous Woman

SCIENTISTS STILL PUZZLED

The "luminous woman of Pirano," who has puzzled scientists in Italy by emitting a glow of light from her chest as she sleeps, has been the subject of a report to the International Radio-biological Congress at Venice.

The woman is Anna Monaro (42), who was in hospital at Pirano early this year suffering from asthma and under-nutrition. Night nurses insisted that on several occasions they saw a glow over her chest during the night. The National Council of Research, of which Senator Marconi is president, requested Professor Fabio Vitelli, a Venice doctor, to make an official investigation. After taking all steps to ensure that there was no imposture, Professor Vitelli and several other doctors waited up one night in the ward. A cinematographic camera was rigged up beside the bed.

The professor's report says:—"At 10.35 p.m., without any sound, there suddenly appeared a glow of bluish-white light, which appeared to come from the patient's chest, and lit up her neck and face in such a way as to show up her features. The light threw no shadow on the pillow or the wall behind."

"At the same time the woman stirred uneasily in her sleep and moaned, 'Oh, Jesus, help me.'"

"The phenomenon lasted for only a second, during which time a photograph was taken. When the photograph was developed it showed nothing."

"The patient was awakened, but apart from a quick pulse and a hot skin nothing abnormal was observed about her."

"All who saw the phenomenon were convinced that it was absolutely real."

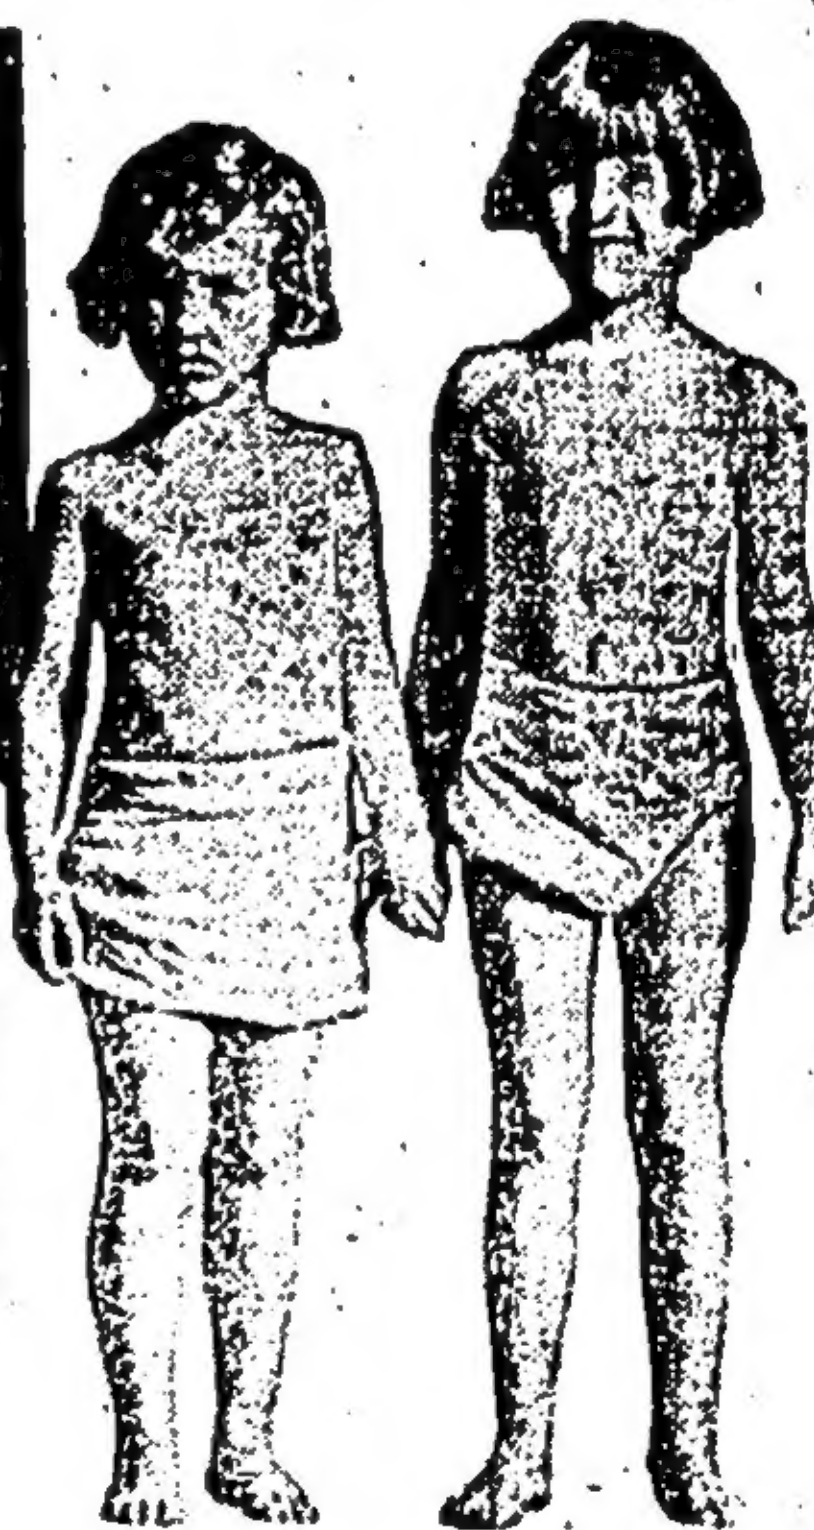

Anna Monaro was taken to Rome for further examination, but the phenomenon was not seen again. She is being kept under constant observation.

Science throws new light on tooth decay

Pain is nature's warning that teeth are diseased. The cause of pain is usually decay and an important cause of decay is film on teeth, which science calls "bacterial plaque."

—contrast the attitude of the savage who files his teeth with that of the modern young woman who keeps her teeth white and beautiful. Modern children may well be expected to have far better teeth than their ancestors.

THE actual cause of the aching tooth is now believed to be due to gases, formed inside the tooth during the process of decay. These gases expand and press on the sensitive nerves of the teeth.

Dental science answers the question of what leads to tooth decay by blaming food particles that have been permitted to remain between the teeth. Germs formed in and by this putrefying top produce acids which attack and dissolve the teeth.

The germs that cause these decay-producing acids live in film, or bacterial plaque, which forms on the teeth. Removal of film has, therefore, become a necessity. One of the most notable discoveries in this field was made recently in the laboratories of The Pepsodent Co., where a new and revolutionary film-removing material was developed. This new discovery is contained in Pepsodent Tooth Paste, exclusively. As it is twice as soft as the material most commonly used, Pepsodent is looked upon as the modern standard of safety. At the same time this new material stands unique in its power to cleanse and polish teeth.

Use Pepsodent Tooth Paste twice a day—see your dentist at least twice a year.

Another report from General Wong Chah-ih, Chairman of the Kweichow Provincial Government and concurrently commander of the 25th Army Corps, states that Huang-ping, a county on the western border of Kweichow, which was occupied by the bandits some time ago, has been recovered. Beautiful Switzerland sends you the best it produces the wonderful "BEAR BRAND" milk. Right from the Emmenthal, the classic Swiss milk centre, "BEAR BRAND" is even more than Swiss milk, it is real Emmenthal milk.

Obtained from inspected cows only, scientifically sterilized at a model factory, it comes straight to you. A real health giving milk.

Science has achieved a great deal, yet nothing will ever replace the quality of the green crop which is grown on the pastures of the Emmenthal. It serves to produce "BEAR BRAND" milk and that is why there is no substitute for it.

Up from this seething, roaring, molten lake in Halemauau crater of Kilauea, mightiest Hawaiian volcano, lava spouted more than 500 feet in the air, a tremendously impressive sight, as a prelude to the first eruption there since December, 1931. Two thousand feet across, this mammoth pit, 800 to 1,000 feet deep, is an awe-inspiring sight even when less active, with its bleak islands and crags of solidified lava.

NAVAL ARMAMENTS RACE

U.S. MOVE IF JAPAN DENOUNCES TREATY

London, Oct. 12. From the most reliable quarters it is learned that when the Japanese delegates demand the abolition of ratios at the Naval Conference, the United States delegates will, in all probability, reply suggesting the revision or elimination of Article XIX in the Washington Naval Treaty.

Article XIX restricts the fortification of possessions in the Pacific, and it is pointed out that such a move would re-open the possibility of strengthening the existing U. S. naval and air bases in the Philippines, and Hawaii. It would also admit of the establishment of new extensive bases in Alaska, the Aleutians and even Guam.

It is also pointed out that the Japanese demand for abolition of ratios might impel Great Britain to consider enlarging Hongkong's defence facilities.

In the face of these prospects, it is learned that the British and American delegates are determined, at the outset of negotiations, to do their utmost to induce Japan to reconsider her intention of denouncing the Naval Treaty.—United Press.

WATCHMAN ACCUSED.

INDIAN APPEARS IN COURT ON THEFT CHARGE

Remanded from October 6, in order that he might engage a solicitor, for his defence, Bikan Singh, 30 years of age, private watchman of the Palace Hotel, again appeared before Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones, at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday, charged with the theft of, or receiving stolen goods consisting of, crockery, silverware, towels and other miscellaneous articles, the property of Mrs. A. B. Oxberry, proprietress of the Palace Hotel. He was also charged with stealing, or receiving stolen articles consisting of, one pair of gloves, from the manager of the Hotel, A. Bower; a gold mounted fountain pen from J. S. Beach, a resident of the hotel; and a travelling rug, the property of Lai King a "boy" employed at the hotel. The thefts occurred between December 1933 and October 3, 1934.

Mr. Leo D'Almada who appeared for the defence, informed the magistrate that he had received instructions from the defendant only that morning, and he would like to have the case adjourned. His Worship in reply said to the defendant, "You are a perfect nuisance. I can't afford to waste so much valuable time, if you are too lazy to get a solicitor to defend yourself." Defendant pleaded that he could not raise the money for the fees so soon.

A plea of not guilty to all the charges was entered.

Prosecution's Evidence.

Detective-Sergeant Davies stated that on October 3 about 2.30 p.m., on information received from Mrs. Oxberry and Mr. Bower, he took out a search warrant, and at 3.15 p.m. the same day he entered 288, Ki Lung Street, third floor, accompanied by Mrs. Oxberry and Mr. Bower.

The defendant on being questioned admitted that a vase had been taken from the Palace Hotel together with a quantity of crockery, all of which were found on a shelf in the living room of defendant's flat.

On a bed in the living room the travelling rug was found, and a box next to the bed, on it being unlocked by defendant, was found to contain a pair of gloves and some knives and spoons. In two drawers of a table on the opposite side of the room the remainder of the cutlery was found.

A search of a large chest revealed a straw bag, in which was a powder compact, a locket and an expanding bracelet. Below this chest there were two cupboards, and in one of them three pillow cases, a coloured table cloth and two towels were found. A dark coloured towel was also found on a clothes line on the verandah.

Witness stated that, while he was in the living room, he noticed the defendant take his hand from his coat pocket and stretch it towards a chest, and as a precaution he made a search of it. Lying on top of the chest a fountain pen was found which was later identified by Mr. Beach. Some beads were also found in the same chest.

A search was made of the shelf in the living room, and 12 large glasses, four small blue china plates, two large plates, an enamel teapot and a china teapot were found.

Defendant's Statement.

The defendant was then arrested and taken to the Water Police Station, where he was charged by an Indian interpreter.

The interpreter, Abdul Mahjib, gave evidence and stated that he charged defendant on October 3, and cautioned him in Hindustani. Defendant made some statements, which were taken down in Hindustani, and signed by the man.

To the first charge, defendant made a statement that he had stolen the spoons and glasses, but the other articles had been given to him by his mistress. In reply to the charge of stealing a pair of gloves, he stated that they belonged to a friend who was a motor car driver, and he also (Continued on Page 7.)

claimed that the pen and rug were his property. Mrs. A. B. Osberry, in evidence, stated that defendant had been engaged by her as a watchman. She did not know whether he was a registered watchman or not. His duties were to watch the premises at night, and keep an eye on the servants. Defendant had been in her employ for over 17 years, until October 3.

Witness stated that the defendant's wife was sick and she visited her on October 3. Defendant was not home at the time. On sitting down in the living room, she saw a vase which she recognized as being one which she had bought in Japan. The vase had been placed in one of the boarder's rooms. The boarder had left and the room was now vacant, but she had not noticed the vase was missing.

Saw Her Property.

On a shelf she saw a lot of cups and saucers, which she recognized as being the set she used at Fanling. They had been bought by her from a Japanese store in Harbour Road. The cups and saucers were not used at the hotel, and had been put away last March, in a wooden box which was kept in the backyard.

Witness then went to the Water Police Station and had a warrant taken out, and was also present at the search, which took place the same day. During the search Detective-Sergeant Davies produced a purse belonging to witness. The purse contained a locket in which was a photo of her husband and mother.

Three strings of beads were also found and identified by the witness as belonging to her. Witness stated that the beads had been kept in a dressing table in her private room. An expanding bracelet for a wrist watch was also found and identified by the witness, who stated that this was also kept in a dressing table in her room and had not been worn for a very long time.

Among the other articles found were two towels and three pillow cases, which were marked. These were new and had only been used for four or five days; 32 spoons, three dessert and knives, three table knives were also found.

At the time of the search, witness spoke to the defendant in Hindustani and he admitted that the articles belonged to witness.

At this stage his Worship remarked that the identification of the locket by witness was a very strong point in the evidence against defendant. The case was then adjourned for several minutes to enable Mr. D'Almada to consult with his client.

On resuming, further evidence was given by Mr. Bower, manager of the Palace Hotel, Mr. Beach, an overseer of the Public Works Department, and Lai King a "Boy" employed at the Palace Hotel. These witnesses also identified articles which had been stolen from them.

Mr. D'Almada reserved his cross-examination, and the case was adjourned to Tuesday next.

It's EASY to Catch COLD or 'FLU' when TRAVELLING

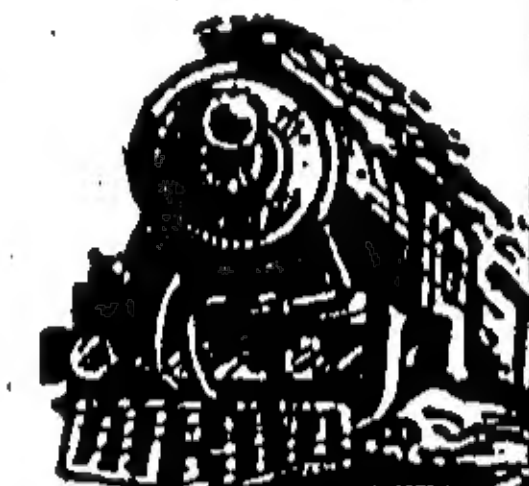

'ASPRO'

WILL PROTECT YOU

GERMS are no respecters of persons. Wherever you travel you cannot tell the moment you are likely to catch a cold—or even the 'Flu.' The proved protection is 'ASPRO.' At the slightest sign of sneezing—sore throat—feverishness, etc., take 'ASPRO' according to the directions in the packet. Quick relief is assured, because 'ASPRO' expels the body poisons through the pores of the skin, and, therefore, restores one to normal health by eliminating such poisons and not suppressing them. Furthermore, 'ASPRO' is safe, sure and certain—it neither harms the heart nor stomach, and it conforms to the standard of purity laid down by the British Pharmacopoeia—the guiding authority of the medical profession.

My wife is a staunch advocate for their use now, and takes 'ASPRO' at the first sign of a cold. Wishing 'ASPRO' and their inventor all the good luck they deserve—I am,

Dear Sir,
I thank you for your kind interest in directing me to the certain way to effect a cure to the nasty COLD with which I had been battling for three weeks, during which time I had tried so many other infallible remedies. On Thursday last I carried out your advice to the letter, and I could hardly believe the fact that on Saturday morning I woke up with no cold left, nor did I cough through the night as I had been in the habit of doing. Although I have used 'ASPRO' with excellent results for years in relieving HEADACHES, I can say positively and with very much appreciation that your assurance that 'ASPRO' would break up a Cold or the 'Flu' in 24 hours if the directions were properly observed, has been conclusively proven.

SATURDAY, OCT. 13, 1934.

HONG KONG NIGHT LIFE

Much will no doubt be heard during Hongkong's winter season, just commencing, on the question of investing the night life of the Colony with a somewhat more attractive and colourful atmosphere. The very fact that the subject was deemed worthy of mention during the recent Budget debate is sufficient to indicate the existence of a feeling that some of the prevailing restrictions might well be modified. On the other hand, there are many who will argue that existing facilities are ample for the needs of residents and visitors alike. Up to a point, they may be perfectly right; there is certainly no call for introducing into Hongkong certain features of night life which have given some Far Eastern centres a reputation with which this Colony can very well do without. We can, indeed, imagine visitors from outside finding it a relief to get away from the excitements and frothy gaiety to which they have become all too accustomed elsewhere. But there is surely a happy medium which might be struck, a middle course for the off-heard reproach that the authorities here are inclined to something approaching a grandmotherly outlook in their anxiety to see that undue licence is not permitted those who seek to turn night into day. It was no doubt this thought which Mr. Mackie had in mind when he pointed out that unless a rather heavy fee is paid, no ordinary and innocuous place of amusement can keep its doors open after midnight. The Government answer to Mr. Mackie's plea was a typically official reply—it was not aware of any general demand for longer hours, except on special occasions, when extensions were freely granted, but if such a demand were made known to the Government, it would receive full consideration. The point which was either overlooked or ignored by the Government spokesman was that heavy fees have to be paid for extensions—a circumstance which probably causes hotel managements to pause before arranging too many special nights. The mere

NOTES OF THE DAY

SARAJEVO HYSTERIA

Sarajevo has featured in the news before. The people of that city, Croato-Serbian for the most part, are a warlike lot. It was the scene of the assassination which started the world war in 1914, and now, following the assassination of King Alexander of Yugoslavia, it is once again a danger-point in Europe. The population of the city has become riotous, due probably to a certain amount of hysteria and to the development of political crisis within the state, and actually, the demonstrations should not be taken too seriously. Nevertheless, they are dangerous. For acts of violence at a time like this might very easily provoke reprisals which would breed more than resentment. The Balkan states have always been a source of trouble, due to an infinity of causes, and Yugoslavia is no exception. The people are psychologically ripe for the plucking of war-mongers and there is no lack of these latter in Yugoslavia, for there is resentment still over the frontier demarcation settled by the Treaty of Versailles. It is to be hoped that the calmer heads of the nation will prevail in this time of crisis.

CABINET CHANGES

Yesterday the Yugo-Slavian Cabinet tendered its resignation to Prince Paul, the Regent. It was a mere gesture, for there will be no change in Government until after the funeral of King Alexander. But immediately following his obsequies, the Cabinet will walk out. Then the real political crisis will arrive. However, there is no suggestion as yet that there will be any drastic reactionary movement in Belgrade, and the arrival of the Boy King, Peter, fresh from school in England, should have a unifying effect upon a people easily awayed by sentiment. The resentment against France, meanwhile, seems to have subsided, and the direction of Yugo-Slavian spite appears to be towards Italy, for some reason which is not entirely clear from despatches.

CAN GOOD TIMES LAST?

At this time of doubt and international economic insecurity, we might do well to consider the words of a very able commentator: Although business generally is better to-day than it has been since the beginning of the depression, and the outlook is hopeful, the question "Can good times last?" is being asked in many quarters. A number of economists are saying that conditions must deteriorate unless international trade improves. They overlook several important factors which are helping to compensate for the shrinkage in world commerce. New industries have created new demands to absorb more workers. Great Britain is becoming increasingly a centre for foreign tourist traffic. This country is to-day the refuge for foreign capital, which is attracted by its stability and the better prospects of using it. If anyone had foreseen that our export trade would fall from $839,000,000 in 1929 to $416,000,000 in 1933, he would also have visualised a ruined country with a population on the verge of starvation. What do we find? Last month there were 10,170,000 people in employment, or slightly more than in August 1929.

MORE VISITORS

This year looks like establishing a record for foreign visitors to Great Britain. The month by month figures all show increases over last year, the best since 1929. More foreigners than ever have ranked estates in Central and Northern Scotland, and the London little season is already assured of a great influx. The importance of the tourist industry to a country is shown by the fact that France used to rely upon it to redress her adverse balance of trade. The loss of a large proportion of export trade is admittedly a serious matter, but the state of employment and production shows that prosperity is possible in spite of it.

fact that the public response is so marked when these gala nights are held would seem to indicate that general demand of the existence of which the Government professes to be ignorant. The point thus arises whether the time has not come when the present normal midnight limit should not be abandoned in favour of a later hour, giving hotel managements and others concerned an automatic extension without payment of a special fee. There would surely be nothing unduly startling or dangerous in such a concession. The next step, however, lies with those whose business it is to cater to the public demand.

MR. PEPYS IN HONGKONG

Oct. 5th.—Up betimes, and to the Valley upon business but not so betimes that I am able to see any of the ponies. Back to the office where I do take my nuncheon, so busy am I, and later to a preview. There too comes Mistress Ann's Father, who hath somewhat of a rheum upon his chest, so I do give him treatment thereafter with a glass or two of Hollands Waters. Dined quietly and so to bed.

6th.—Up very betimes and after trimming myself to my office where I sign papers and leave somewhat early, though not as early as I had hoped. To the shoppes, paying small bills, which do irk me much, they being too small for a cheque, such as I do prefer to use. And indeed it proves most useful at times, as when a certain Clubbe did dun me for a bill I had already paid; whereupon I do make some sport with the Secretary. After I have obtained my Race Book, which my old friend Mr. Winter leaves for me, I go to Whipnade, very angry because it begins to rain. There I do meet Mistress Ann's parents and find her Father mighty opinionastro about a typhoon which he says is most like to hit the Colony. And when I do tell him the weather doth show that the danger be past, he will have none of it. But I am satisfied that the Naval Yarde was far more windy than ever the weather was like to be. To the Races, where we do take our nuncheon very pleasantly, but Lord! how it rains, and the best pleasure of the Meeting ruined. This day, the first time that ever I saw it so, they do wager a stakes of two florins instead of five, and it is strange to see how our mathematical do fall beside our recollection, for we still do yearn for the dividends at the odds figures, pratermitting remembrance of the fact that we do but wager but two-fifths of our odds stake. And so the biggest prize that I did take notice of, something less than seventeen florins, stands as equivalent of forty-two florins upon the former scale. After the racing we do take a glasse or two to keep out the damp weather from our systems and to the Yarde, where we do find Mr. Peter's ship not yet lost in his typhoon. But, lest there be waste did such disaster follow, we did finish the wardroom whiskey. But even so I did fall of my purpose to take a cowl ashore to serve as nest for the Storks. Dined quietly at the Clubbe. This night comes the news of Mary Brough's death, and I am sorry for it, she being the most humorous actress and played in all my favourite farces.

7th. (Lord's Day).—Lay late, and did partake of my matutinal kipper at nigh ten of the clock. Very lazy all day. Ill news from Spain, where they riot and strike like all Republicans. And I do most heartily thank Providence that my nation is ruled by the King's Majesty and is not a tyrant-ridden republique.

8th.—This day dawns somewhat cooler, and very foule wet weather, but Mr. Peter's typhoon comes not. To my office where I am very busy all day and I am minded to learn the Japanese language. To the Clubbe later where with Mr. John and Sir R. Harpenden and others we do settle the business of the Dramatic Clubbe's reading. And I do indeed trust that all those bidden do not suppose they shall have a part for certain, and later on I go to Whipnade where I see Mrs. Muleygrubs who talks to me of schooling ponies and the like. But I do fear I am over heavy for the animals we have out here.

9th.—Again very raw and wet but no typhoon, though news comes from the Pratas that the King's great shippe Suffolk hath rescued some of the crew of the City boat that is ashore there, and like to be a total loss. But I did spend a mighty pleasant evening for all the foule weather.

10th.—This day dawns fine, and I am glad of it, as it is a holiday, and I am bidden to the Races. And so, while about noon I do watch the Clubbe and Kowloon playing at Cricket, I do trouble myself most ridiculously when the rain doth start. But, as fortune has it, it ceases later. Dreadful news of the double assassination at Marseilles, and indeed the scum of Central Europe do seem in sore need of extermination, or over the world shall be at peace again. And I trust that this event hath no ill efforts, though I think that men have learned wisdom since Sarajevo. This morning Suffolk returns after a very gallant piece of work, having saved every soul from the City boat. Later to the Race Course and a mighty pleasant nuncheon tho' my soul is sick with envy at the magnificence of the dahlias that my hostess has grown and now doth use as decoration for her board. But I am sad at heart that my sweep ticket comes not up, for as I will not I feel I cannot let go either number lost it should win next time. Home late, with some of the dahlias which my hostess did present to me and might well do they look in a vase upon my mantel-piece.

11th.—Very busy all day and at nuncheon did visit a pre-view. Learned that I had secured the lease of a house I much wanted, at which I am in great joy. Writing in my diary, and so to bed.

"There's the little car I'd like to own some day."

BULLS AND INNERS

From the Office Butts

"Musical Concert," says a heading. We should hope so.

Which reminds us that a noted conductor has just said that few modern songs will live long. And yet there are people who say we've nothing to be thankful for.

A baseball umpire has been fined for using "over-ripe words." How perfectly rotten!

A contemporary headed an obituary notice: "Oldest living Chinese Diplomat." But he wasn't, really.

A burglar stole a lot of clothing from the Helena May Institute. An undie-standing bloke.

"The Hongkong Singers" are to make their debut next week. We predict that they will a-choir fame.

Gowns with one sleeve are the latest fashion. We confidently anticipate that nether garments will still follow suit.

Speaking of the circus reminds us of the old lady who thought a Cosack was something one knelt on in church.

"Umpire Who Never Erred" ran a headline in a local newspaper. He should have bought one of those new ear-trumpets.

Should Hongkong Rotarians sing? was one of the questions of the week. As far as we know, they have the right Key.

An animal has been seen in the New Territories with a long snout, dark fur, short legs and green eyes. Possibly a rare example of homo sapiens astray from Ice House Street.

We hear of a local peroxide blonde who was inadvertently done brown.

London now has a restaurant that revolves. We seem to remember "The Grips" doing the same thing the other night.

A London authority says that young ladies make very good tent-tasters. We certainly know a few in Hongkong who are good at spooning.

We know one taiwan who should have been a blacksmith. He has so many irons in the fire.

A London girl boxer has become engaged to a foreign nobleman. The question now is "Will she really take the Count?"

It is said that Cricket is a traditionally quiet game. Even so, in Hongkong, Murray Barracks in the vicinity.

A certain local bowler is rapidly gaining the reputation of being a "Gay Lothario." This might be expected from one who is fond of the woods.

One way of getting brighter nights is to forget to turn off the electric light when you go to bed.

Many a stenographer hopes to find the key to the taiwan's heart on her typewriter.

The top hat is gradually disappearing from London. Streamlining seems to be popular everywhere now.

One thing about the munition-makers, they can't be charged with taking sides. All they take is profits.

Maybe you've noticed that the people who talk most about the depression showing signs of ending are those whose salaries haven't been cut.

Girls are said to prefer men with a good appearance. And the sooner they appear, the better.

FINDING ELEGANCE in a FALL SUIT

The new fabrics are lovely and they are often designed in formal styles, but they never forget to be practical

Shoes by
...SELBY...

RABBITS' HAIR cloth—gray background, embroidered in black, red and white—fashions the dress and scarf of the fall suit shown below. A jacket of plain gray is worn over it. Note the interesting black kid oxfords that are perforated and stitched in gray.

THIS BLACK silk crepe ensemble has an amusing blouse that's done up in gold stripes. With it is shown a black felt pan-cake beret and black suede pumps with patent leather scuffless heels.

GOLDEN DOTS mark the black taffeta yoke and scarf of the black-wool jacket dress shown above. The black kid shoes are trimmed with white.

DARK BROWN novelty crepe is used to make this flattering fall outfit which consists of a one-piece dress and a tailored jacket. The dress has lace sleeves and slits in the skirt.

NEW autumn suits and dresses, have about them that trimly tailored elegance which was talked about last August when Paris couturiers showed a fashion-minded world what would be worn this autumn and winter. Formal clothes are all that their name implies, but daytime costumes lean toward the practical.

The new fabrics are lovely. There are tweeds, of course, but they're done up in new and novel patterns.

Plaids are highlighted. You can go in for vivid Scotch varieties or stick to subtle weaves in duller tones. One particularly alert American designer uses a plain red jacket over a long-sleeved dress of red, green and black Scotch plaid. She tops the outfit with a black beret and advises black shoes, gloves and purse.

Novelty woolsens are prevalent this autumn. The hairy ones are a little less fuzzy and the rough ones are rougher than ever. Some are interwoven with metallic threads. A few have cellophane threads.

The best colours are dark green, dark rust, oxford gray, dark blue, off-shades of brown and bright red. Black is, as always, a good choice. Generally it's relieved by colourful touches.

Suit jackets are shorter than formerly. Many are hiplength. The skirts are plain and narrow—often showing side slashes that allow for walking comfort. Slits, by the way, are fashion news this autumn.

Self material bows and ruffles are newer than white or pastel lingerie touches. And this should be good news for the woman who has little time.

Amusing buttons, clips and fastenings are widely used. Suits are trimmed with buttons in strange seashell shapes, and tips of two-piece dresses are held together with pieces of metal that resemble paper clips or notebook rings or bows and arrows.

Accessories are more important than ever. The new hats—tricorne, berets, brimmed models and way-down-on-one-side felts—are flattering as can be.

Shoes are cut on slim-fitting lines that make feet look smaller and much prettier. With suits, oxfords are your best bet. With street dresses, the high-cut pumps are new. Plain black kid and suede—perforated and plain—are the most fashionable shoe fabrics right now.

Be sure to get scuffless heels. They save wear and tear on the pocketbook and certainly help a girl to preserve a neat appearance.

HERE'S A GRAY jacket of hairy woolen worn over a flannel dress of brown, yellow and gray-plaid. The dress has a wide, self material scarf worn outside the neckline of the jacket.

PANCHITO VILLA RETURNS

It is given to few men to become legends in their own time, but when this condition arrives, nothing can stop it or dispel it; it continues to grow and grow until it is almost a ritual; every prosaic event achieves its due glamour and every act becomes another manifestation of the myth.

Something like this was true of Pancho Villa, saviour of his people and one of the most spectacular desperadoes our times have known.

And now Wallace Beery will bring the Mexican bandit to life in Mero-Goldwyn-Mayer's fictional story of his extraordinary career. "Viva Villa!" is now showing on the screen of the Queen's Theatre on Sunday after many months of actual location in Mexico.

Villa's tempestuous early years were so crowded with daring and unprecedented insurrections that his name immediately became a symbol of hope and fear strangely mingled. The mere mention of him in any household, on any road, struck intense emotional associations and a flood of tall stories.

Pancho Villa was that kind of man.

In other ages his kind could have flourished anywhere, and did in great profusion. In recent years—that is, during the last century—Mexico was his natural territory.

For Villa's idea of living was not something that came from within himself but from his soil, the soil of an oppressed and primitive and backward country.

In a country where a handful of rich landowners control the housing and feeding of the entire population and abuse or indulge the workers exactly as they please, it is inevitable that a Robin Hood rise in defence of the people.

A Robin Hood who mercilessly attacks and plunders the rich in order to aid the poor—or, at least, to see that the poor are no longer beaten and deprived.

And this was Villa.

But the Robin Hood of to-day is perforce more bitter and desperate than the despoiler of other years. He cannot be quite so light-hearted and easy-going. He is out to kill because he considers his imminent victims an actual menace to the community. His depredations are not individual triumphs but an effort to unsettle the entire government structure of the country.

And, for this, Villa became a romantic figure, a saviour and a tremendous boogey whom the poor loved and the rich abhorred.

He never meant to be romantic at all. His own children had been so ugly, so full of poverty and deprivation, that it took no more than an early experience to decide his whole way of life.

When a child of eight, Pancho Villa saw his father being whipped to death by a hacendado (a landowner) who had suddenly been empowered to take possession of the particular acre on which they lived.

Pancho never forgot this. At that moment, whether he knew it or not, his whole existence became consecrated to the sheer ideal of avenging this anything but uncommon crime.

For the crime was not an isolated event, not a thing in itself: it was a symbol of tyranny and oppression. And the boy Pancho swore he would wipe this out of a soil that knew sufficient suffering without such brutalities.

That he was recurrently sidetracked in his originally laudable desire is a truth demonstrated in his life and in the picture, but the explanation is clear.

He was a violent and passionate man by nature. Once he began something and became involved in it to the point of high enthusiasm, he had a tendency to forget why he was doing it and to end by doing it entirely for its own sake.

This is a pardonable enough tendency when the activity is a harmless and casual one—but Pancho neither knew when to stop getting married nor when to stop killing people.

The result was that he was constantly performing brutal wholesale actions whose motives ing idea was relatively justified but whose final effect was devastating and rarely worth the ravage.

When this was pointed out to Villa, he was invariably amazed at what he had done and invariably convinced by the rightness of the reproof. He would swear never to do it again.

And then word would come to him of the injustices practiced by some landowners or some military officials—and he would promptly organize his countless and always changing band of desperadoes—and, before he knew it, he had forgotten his promises and was exercising no control whatever in his pillage and executions.

It took a small and delicate man with a gentle voice to get a check on him the like of which Pancho Villa had never before recognized and certainly never heeded.

Francisco Madero, called the Christ-Fool, was utterly against Villa and all his violence, not because he did not believe in militant struggle against the landowners but because this scarcely struck at the root of the evil.

To eliminate certain wrongdoers might be useful for the moment, insofar as it prevented their further functioning—but did not prevent further wrongdoers from rising and having an opportunity to abuse people all over again. The possibilities for the mere development of such a thing had to be removed.

Madero's idea was to seize the government itself. And he tried to make Villa see the truth of this idea.

Villa saw it... for as long as Villa could see anything without forgetting why he had begun it. He put himself under Madero's command as an official military performer and for a time behaved in accordance with formal tactics. Then he heard of a city where appalling abuses were going on. And what was his next step?

Right. He broke faith in his agreements with Madero and went on to do with the city as he and his followers chose.

Men of Villa's stamp offer a mixed contribution toward the salvation of their country from misery.

On the one hand, they make lethargic people vitally aware of the wrongs and abuses of an inequitable state.

On the other hand, they encourage violent and irresponsible men to launch themselves on careers of banditry and rapine in the name of some vague ideal of reform which they have only partially grasped.

The result is that Pancho Villa rules over two camps in the hearts and memories of his countrymen.

There are those who consider he did nothing but harm to Mexico by countenancing personal robbery and thoughtless depredation.

And there are those who stand convinced that his vision and his passion served to create the best aspects of the modern state—or will, at least, be the basis for the future ideal state.

WARM TRIBUTE
TO POLICE FORCEMr. Wolfe's Farewell
To Recruits

"After being sixteen years in command, I can say without hesitation that the Hongkong Police Force is one of the finest forces in the Colony," remarked the Inspector General of Police, the Hon. E. C. Wolfe, C.M.G., when addressing recruits during his farewell visit to the Police Training School, Hongkong, this morning.

The Hon. Mr. Wolfe placed before them two maxims—loyalty and devotion to service—and asked them to maintain the high reputation of the Police Force. He said good-bye and wished each individual member a highly successful career in the Force.

On his arrival by car at the Training School, the Inspector General was met by Chief Inspector A. R. Clarke, Principal of the School, and Chief Inspector F. E. E. Booker.

Following the taking of a group photograph, the Inspector General, accompanied by the Principal, inspected the Kowloon squad of the Emergency Unit, drawn up under Sergeant J. E. Jessop.

In the course of his farewell address, Mr. Wolfe said that the starting of the Police Training School by the late Mr. W. Gerrard, former A. S. P., met a real need. The good work had been carried on by ex-Chief Inspector Paterson, and was now in the capable hands of Chief Inspector Clarke, whom he was sorry to say, was leaving soon. On behalf of the Force, Mr. Wolfe expressed appreciation to C. I. Clarke for his work as Principal of the School and as a regular officer of the regular Force.

The Training School, he added, gave the recruits a solid foundation for knowledge of Police work and regulations, and was an important stepping stone to their careers as Police officers.

On behalf of the School, Chief Inspector Clarke thanked the Inspector General for his kind words and wished him and Mrs. Wolfe and Miss Wolfe bon voyage and a happy retirement.

SILVER BUYING

HEAVY PURCHASES BY AMERICA

London, Oct. 12.

Although the recent rise in silver is attributed to Chinese and Indian demand and the scarcity of supplies, the Financial News states that persistent buying by the United States must have provided a good basis for the rise.

The paper adds that the more sterling depreciates, the more the American authorities are likely to intensify the silver buying policy in order to counteract the unwanted appreciation in the dollar.

This is one reason why the rise in silver exceeded proportionately the depreciation of sterling during the past few days the Financial News adds.—Reuter.

CHARMING BRIDE.

Miss Markham Weds
Captain J. B. Morpeth.

Orange blossom, bent out from England by the bride's god-mother, who wore it at her wedding twenty-six years ago, held the beautiful oyster-pink toned veil which was worn yesterday afternoon at the Union Church, Kennedy Road, by Miss Catherine Mary Markham for her marriage to Captain John Burton Morpeth, of the Chinese Maritime Customs. The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Markham of Marlborough, England, is the niece of Mr. P. B. Joly, Commissioner of Customs at Hoihow, and Mrs. Joly, Captain Morpeth is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Morpeth of Newcastle-on-Tyne, England.

Oyster pink needle-thread lace was chosen for the bride gown and a bouquet of African daisies was carried.

Mrs. C. Briggs, as Matron of Honour, wore a beige crepe-de-chine gown set off with a white hat. She carried a sheaf of ginger flowers and Honolulu creper.

The bride was given away by Mr. E. N. Ennor, Commissioner of Customs in Hongkong. The Rev. E. G. Powell officiated at the ceremony. The duties of best man were carried out by Mr. Richard Wolfenden, who was assisted by Messrs. Harry Cairns and A. C. Lamb-Gasper as Ushers.

A reception followed the wedding ceremony, at the Hongkong Hotel, where the many friends of the couple gathered to toast their future happiness before Captain and Mrs. Morpeth left for the honeymoon at Hoihow. The bride wore a navy blue and grey dress with a navy blue hat, grey shoes and gloves. Captain and Mrs. Morpeth will reside at Repulse Bay until October 20, when they leave on the P. and O. liner Comorin for England.

Miss Joan Potter And Mr. L. Lloyd.

The bride, who was given away by her father, Mr. A. G. Potter of the Naval Store Offices, looked charming in a white silk dress, three-quarter length white milk comb and smart white straw hat. She wore a shoulder spray of white flowers. The bride's mother, as Matron of Honour, wore a nigger brown ensemble. The duties of best man were undertaken by Mr. Geoffrey Worrall of the Asiatic Petroleum Co. After the wedding ceremony, a reception was held at the Hongkong Hotel.

NOTES FROM THE THEATRES

"Britannia of Billingsgate" the new Gaumont-British picture featuring Violet Loraine and Gordon Harker, is packed with humorous situations which provoke happy laughter and warm-hearted appreciation. Sinclair Hill directed the picture from a play written by Christine Hope-Blake and Sewell Stokes, with the story of the reactions of the Boltons, a Billingsgate family, when Mrs. Bolton is suddenly selected to star in a film. Although comedy is the predominant element, there are moments of drama. Three musical numbers, composed by George Posford with lyrics by Holt Marvell, afford Violet Loraine an opportunity to display her vocal and dramatic ability in "There'll Still be Love," "How Can a Fresh Fish Wish" and "Pleasantly Playground." A further number sung by Miss Loraine is "Let the World Go Drifting By," written by Harry Leon and Leo Towers. Gordon Harker, of course, has a role considerably to his liking, as the fish market porter who tries to become a gentleman, a role that is possibly the finest he has yet created. The story moves from Billingsgate to a film studio. Sequences were "shot" in the Gaumont-British studios at Shepherd's Bush, which figure largely in the film as the studios of the Phoenix Film Corporation; also at the Gaumont Palace, Hammermith, the venue at which Mrs. Bolton's film receives its premiere. The homely good-natured appeal of Miss Loraine, coupled with the broad humour of Gordon Harker, plus the interesting peeps into film studio life, makes "Britannia of Billingsgate" one of the most popular pictures of the year. Don't miss it when it comes to the Queen's Theatre next week.

"Mandalay" The most colourful spot in the Far East is Burma. The Burmese, a race apart from the Hindus with whom they are generally classed by the uninformed, are a proud, cultured, upright, intelligent people, far superior to the languid, procrastinating natives usually found in the tropics. Burma supplies the colourful setting for "Mandalay," the first National production, featuring Kay Francis with Ricardo Cortez, Warner Oland and Lyle Talbot, which opens to-day at the Alhambra Theatre. Paul Hervey Fox, the author, knows the Far East as well as Kipling, as is evidenced by his many entrancing stories placed in that background. In "Mandalay" he has written the story of Tanya, a Russian refugee, rescued from the Bolsheviks by an unscrupulous soldier of fortune, who sells her into virtual slavery to a resort keeper. Her flight and pursuit on a boat bound from Rangoon to Mandalay forms one of the most thrilling dramas screened. Michael Curtis directed the picture from the screen play by Austin Parker and Charles Kenyon.

"Viva Villa" A daughter of the De Mille-Katherine, by name—makes her screen debut in "Viva Villa!" the spectacular story of Panchito Villa which is such a pronounced success at the Queen's Theatre. Coached by her famous father, Cecil B. De Mille, the daughter gives a good account of herself in her initial appearance before the cameras. She portrays the fiery-tempered wife of Wallace Beery, who plays Villa, and her work combines drama and comedy in deft proportions. "Viva Villa!" produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, is the story of the tempestuous life and loves of the great Mexican war lord and revolutionary general. Produced largely in Mexico, it is at once a dynamic story and a series of gorgeous settings. It is hailed as one of the truly great pictures of the year. With Beery and Miss De Mille is a notable cast including Leo Carrillo, Fay Wray, Donald Cook, Stuart Erwin, George E. Stone, Joseph Schildkraut, Phillip Cooper, Frank Puglia and Henry B. Walthall.

"Invisible Man" That "genius is the rare capacity for taking infinite pains" possibly accounts for the unusual success which James Whale has enjoyed as one of the most distinguished of motion picture directors. The man who is credited with the startling effectiveness of Universal's sensational production of H. G. Wells' "The Invisible Man" showing at the Oriental Theatre on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. It has a record of thoroughness in the production of pictures approached by few cinema masters. H. G. Wells' story of a mad scientist who made himself invisible and then set about to rule the world with this invincible power, is the type of drama that he has scored in before, and the setting in England, where people he knows so well, allowed him to devise many authentic and picturesque effects in creating the images which bring the drama to life on the screen. "The Invisible Man," which has created a veritable furor wherever it has been shown, because of its speculative theme and uncanny unseen star, is enacted by a cast of distinguished actors including Claude Rains, William Harrigan, Gloria Stuart, Dudley Digges, Una O'Connor, Henry Travers and Forrester Harvey.

"The Little Giant" When an underworld big shot decides to turn gentleman, give up gun-running for tea dances, exchange his machine gun for books on philosophy and expensive etchings, trade in his liquor trucks for polo ponies; when he begins to talk with a broad "A", lapsing into a bit of French now and then—when, in short, (Continued on Page 11.)

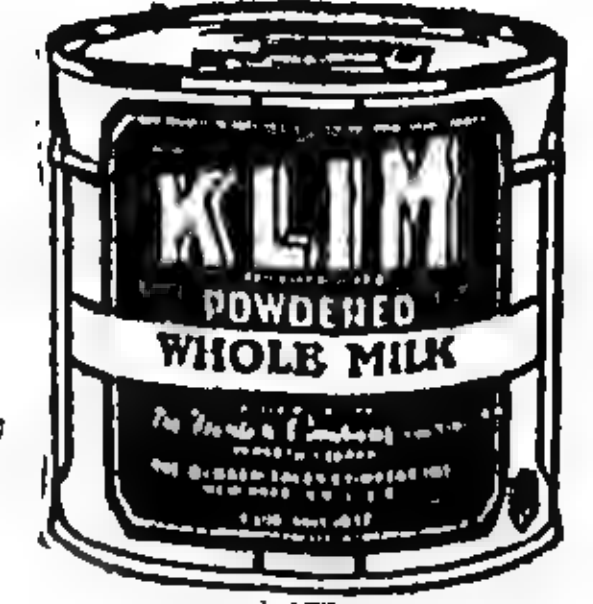

EXTRA NOURISHMENT FOR GROWING CHILDREN.

Klim is particularly good for growing children. It has a rich, natural flavour—a flavour which children like. Moreover it contains the food elements which children must have—full cream, all the curds, whey, casein, enzymes and vitamins.

Klim is of unusual value to children who cannot or will not drink enough milk. Klim enables them to EAT milk.

Because it is dry, Klim can be added in increased quantities to such dishes as the children's cereal.

The nourishment of these foods can be increased as much as 100 per cent., in this simple way. This is possible with Klim because of its being practically devoid of moisture.

CINEMA NEWS

he makes up his mind to "muscle in" on society and be a millionaire among the millionaires, the result is likely to be hilariously funny. It would be funny, even in real life. But when the gangster turns out to be Edward G. Robinson, as he does in his latest First National picture, "The Little Giant," which is showing at the Alhambra Theatre on Tuesday you can settle back in your seat to follow his adventures with the prospect of an amusing hour ahead. "The Little Giant," may be regarded as prophetic picture of what those bootlegger leaders who have survived the bullets of gangland, and who may have held on to their ill-gotten wealth may do now: that real beer has become legal in the United States. It is a very well established fact that so called "big shots" of the underworld, after they have amassed their pile, have tried to break into society; have taken to golf, polo, yachting and generally vacationing at resorts patronized by the social elite. It is such a character that Edward G. Robinson as "The Little Giant," plays. Mary Astor as Robinson's leading woman in "The Little Giant," brings once more her individual beauty and charm. Russell Lyon, well-known for his vivid characterizations on the screen, will be seen as Robinson's right-hand man, Helen Vinson, Donald Dillaway, Kenneth Thomson and a large cast of supporting work together to make "The Little Giant" one of the most unusual comedies of the season.

"Cockeyed Cavaliers"
An advanced technique in the production and direction of a musical motion picture and which has gained recognition from the Motion Picture Academy of Arts and Sciences, is demonstrated in "Cockeyed Cavaliers," Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey's new starring comedy, showing today at the King's Theatre. The method was devised by Mark Sandrich, who won the Academy award with his "So This is Harris". In directing "Cockeyed Cavaliers," Sandrich piloted the musical comedy according to his original screen standards rather than stage dicta. He keeps the film continually uninterupted through his device of incorporating the dances, songs and vocalizations and music accompaniment itself as part of the story. The lyrics are of integral importance to the film story, although they could be sung independently. The ultra-modern technique, convulsing comedy, eye-filling pulchritude and four new tuneful melodies are set against a story whose setting is a random European locale during the Middle Ages. Wheeler and Woolsey play the title roles in "Cockeyed Cavaliers" as vagabond knights around whose adventures the film's hilarity is built.

"Charlie Chan's Courage"
If it hadn't been for Earl Derr Biggers, Warner Oland might never have got out of the villain class. Oland went from studio to studio for years, engaging in no end of screen dirty work. Then Fox Film purchased Biggers' popular novel "Charlie Chan Carries On," and after a long scrutiny of the Hollywood horizon decided that Oland, a native of Umea, Sweden, would make the ideal Charlie Chan. Since then he has done a half dozen Chan pictures, each one achieving more popularity than those preceding. Charlie Chan's newest adventures are to be seen in "Charlie Chan's Courage" which finds the famed Honolulu detective entrusted with a half million dollar necklace and getting into plenty of trouble. George Hadden directed "Charlie Chan's Courage," opening at the King's on Sunday, in which Drue Leyton and Donald Woods manage to carry on a romance amid the murders and mystery.

Goalkeeper Sought In America

ARGYLE'S NEW SOURCE OF TALENT

San Francisco. Plymouth Argyle is seeking a new goalkeeper in San Francisco. The club has entered into negotiations here to obtain the services of Carl Walter, towering amateur goalkeeper of Olympic Club, one of San Francisco's leading soccer clubs and twice winner of the Californian championship.

Walter is the first Western soccer player and the first American amateur whose services have been sought by England. Mr. Edgar Pomerey, California's rugby football commissioner and a native of Liverpool, told Walter's correspondent in an interview that he understood Walter had been recommended to the Plymouth Argyle club by Californian football officials who came here to live from Scotland.

Mr. Pomerey himself once played for the New Brighton rugby club.

MIGRATION LAWS.

Difficulties have arisen, however, in connection with Walter's transfer and no definite decision has been reached yet. "Immigration" quotas are in effect in England, as they are in the United States, said Mr. Pomerey, "and if Walter, who is eager to go, had to wait his turn under the quota the football season in England would be too far advanced for him to be of much use to the Plymouth Club."

"However, an arrangement may be entered into whereby Walter would receive a six months' passport and thus comply with immigration regulations. There is also the question of Walter's amateur status, which might be endangered by an arrangement with a professional club."

Many British football enthusiasts, from all parts of the Empire, have settled in California, and as a result San Francisco has become an American centre for soccer. A dozen clubs have been in operation for several years.

The Olympic Club's players are chiefly drawn from England, Scotland and New Zealand.

CHARITY FOOTBALL MATCHES

ARMY TO MEET S. CHINA

STRONG TEAMS SELECTED

(By "Veritas").

With four particularly attractive teams on view, there should be an especially large attendance at Caroline Hill tomorrow afternoon, when South China senior and junior teams engage the Army senior and junior elevens in charity matches on behalf of the Ministering Children's League.

The Army have selected two very representative teams, the Corps of Signals, Borderers, Lincolns, Royal Artillery and East Lancashires all contributing players.

The Army seniors have an especially good team, with Cord in goal, Mullane and Morrison at back, Dudley, Podmore and Harris (of the Artillery) half backs, and Mathias, Woods (of the East Lancashires), Hopkins (of the Artillery) and Ridley and Baldry (of the Lincolns) at forward.

South China are also fielding the best teams available, and two first rate displays of football are promised.

It should be pointed out that in view of these matches at Caroline Hill, the junior starting at 2.30, and the senior at 4.15, the league match between the Navy and St. Joseph's, originally scheduled for Caroline Hill, will now be played at Kowloon.

The teams for tomorrow's charity matches follow.

Chinese Athletic And Governor's Cup

AN EXPLANATION

(By "Veritas").

In what was possibly a misguided attempt to appeal to the loyalty of players selected to appear in the Chinese Amateur Athletic Federation soccer teams; I unfairly implicated the Chinese Athletic F.C. in my article on Thursday.

It need hardly be stated that no such implication was intended, yet I think it only right to assure both the Chinese Athletic and the Federation that it was my last wish to create any misunderstanding between these bodies.

Writing under a misapprehension I stated that the Athletic were members of the Federation and suggested their players, and especially those chosen to play in the Governor's Cup on Wednesday.

TO HOCKEY CLUB SECRETARIES.

Secretaries of Hockey Clubs are invited to send to the Hockey Editor, Hongkong Telegraph, copies of fixture lists for insertion weekly in the paper.

last, owed allegiance and loyalty to the Federation.

Mr. H.K. Lee, however, informs me that the Athletic are no longer members of the Federation, but under a friendly arrangement the Federation can invite Athletic players to turn out in representative games if they desire them.

WHY NOT CHANGE THE DATE?

It appears that the reason why Ho Ka-koung, Au Ping-ming and Fung King-mui did not turn out on Wednesday after being invited to, was that they had other arrangements made.

This, plus the fact that three of South China's Canton players were unable to get down, prompts one to suggest that possibly the Double Tenth is not the best day on which to arrange this important match.

The Federation and Football Association may be led to feel that in order to allow the Chinese to field a more representative team, the date should be changed. Anyhow I offer the suggestion for what it is worth.

One cannot regard last Wednesday's game as a real test for the F.A. side, in addition to which the attendance of Chinese supporters was obviously affected as a result of their disappointment in the absence of so many leading Chinese players.

FUTURE OF GAME IN THE BALANCE

REVIEW OF PROPOSED RULES AND REGULATIONS

SOME OF THE LIKELY ISSUES TO BE DEBATED

(By "Veritas").

The stage is all set for next Tuesday's important meeting of badminton clubs, and it is, perhaps, not going too far to suggest that the future success of the game in Hongkong stands or falls on the result of this meeting.

Clubs, which have already signified their desire to participate in a league this winter, are being called together to decide whether the organisation known as the Badminton League shall form itself into a Badminton Association, vested with full powers to control the game in the Colony and to conduct league, championships, and other events.

Proposed regulations for this Association and rules to govern the league have been in the hands of all clubs for several days, and it is not anticipated that there will be any vital opposition to them.

The Executive Committee in fact, has come to the conclusion that it has accomplished a praiseworthy piece of work in the formulating of these rules. Even without the advantage of seeing how they operate in practice, they can be written down as a very sound and conscientious attempt to provide organised badminton in the Colony with a firm foundation.

ON FIRM BASIS.

The Committee has not hesitated to draw from the well of experience of other sports associations, and the regulations are based on well established precedents. In the case of the league rules, of course, somewhat more original lines had to be followed in order to legislate for the situations peculiar to the game in its infancy which may arise.

In this respect, however, every effort has been made to allow clubs as much freedom as possible. To introduce hard and fast rules at such a stage of an organisation is in danger of strangling it at birth. A certain amount of laxity, tolerance and friendly arrangements are necessary under such circumstances, so that the development of the game shall be encouraged, and not arrested.

So far as I can see from the draft rules, the only issue likely to be raised in connection with the regulations for the Association, is on the point of affiliation fees. That money should always be a vital feature of any sports organisation is somewhat debatable, but has to be faced none the less. To put the Association on a firm footing it seems essential that there should be some sort of capital reserve, and in suggesting an annual affiliation fee it is not a case of creating precedent, but of following it.

In this case it carries with it the right of full membership and of complete protection in matters pertaining to the game in Hongkong. It allows its members to participate in all competitions arranged by the Association with a status not enjoyed by those who are non-members.

LEAGUE RULES.

As regards the league rules, it is difficult to pass any strictures until they have been put into practical effect. As they stand at present they appear to cover all the situations likely to arise, and theoretically at least, they appear to be sound.

There may be a difference of opinion forthcoming concerning the method of playing the league matches. The alternative to the suggested "Round Robin" system, whereby every pair plays every pair one game of 21 points, seems to be to play nominated pairs against each other the best of three games. There are cogent reasons to be argued both for and against, and it is a point on which the clubs will doubtless express their opinions next Tuesday.

Another ruling which may need further treatment is that pertaining to the rights of players playing for more than one club in the league. The issue is whether a player, who is a member of two clubs competing in the league, shall be able to play for both under special circumstances. The "special circumstances" are that one of his clubs has a team in the men's doubles, but not in the mixed, whereas his other club has a team in the mixed and not in the men's. In such a case it is being proposed that the player shall have the right to play for both clubs, as he is not then barred from playing in any of the divisions, which he would be under the general ruling that no player shall play for more than one club in any one season.

SPORTING RULE.

The intention behind this rule is obviously to afford all players every opportunity to play as much league tennis as possible. It is a rule which is very open to abuse, but there is not the slightest reason to believe that any unfair advantage will be taken of it.

Another effort to prevent matches being slavishly governed by "the law" is the rule which allows a substitute to take the place of any member of a team injured during a match and unable to continue. Here again

OUR INTERPORT FAILURE

HONGKONG TEAM DISAPPOINTS

TWO BAD BATTING COLLAPSES

(By "Veritas").

Outplayed from start to finish, Hongkong lost the cricket Interport to Shanghai by 270 runs. The worst fears of the local critics were realised in the shocking batting displays of the Colony's team. In neither innings did the batting approach the standard set by Shanghai, the tragic part being that the Northern bowlers were flattered.

Nevertheless unstinted and unqualified congratulations are extended to Shanghai. Every player justified his selection and from the time Donald Leach won the toss, the team played to win. Probably a number of excuses could be advanced for Hongkong's very disappointing showing, but one has to acknowledge that they made a poor fight of it.

The wicket on the second day, although cut up, was apparently not very difficult, anyway it rolled out to a very easy paced pitch yesterday. After setting a good standard in the field on Tuesday, Hongkong let themselves down rather badly in Shanghai's second innings, and the fielding was, to say the least, not impressive.

OUR PLAYERS.

Pereira failed with the ball, but he did not enjoy the best of luck and had one or two catches dropped. Ricketts bowled wonderfully well, and quite obviously had Shanghai puzzled with his spinners, plus an immaculate length.

T. A. Pearce, in addition to a fine fighting knock in the first innings, backed up Ricketts with his bowling, and it is quite fair to say that those two were the only bowlers to worry Shanghai.

Minu had a good spell in the second innings and deserved better figures than 3 for 31. Garthwaite was rather a disappointment. The wicket was too easy paced to assist him in bowling, and he did not shape at all consistently with the bat.

It was hard luck on Owen-Hughes that as captain he should fail to maintain the magnificent batting form he had shown down here, and his early exits in both innings undoubtedly had their moral effect on the rest of the team.

STOKES' MATCH.

But when it came to batting Hongkong hadn't the talent even to compare with Shanghai's players for player. The match, of course, will go down to posterity as Stokes' Match. He not only scored a total of 211 runs, but took two very cheap wickets in the second innings, and none other than those of Pearce and Ricketts.

Pat Madar's success with the ball was, perhaps, a little unexpected, but none the less worthy as an achievement. But it is noteworthy that in Hongkong's final knock, no less than five bowlers shared the wickets in an innings which realised only 102 runs.

Rugby Game Between U.S. And England

BRITISH TOURISTS PLEASED WITH WELCOME

New York. International rugby football between England and the United States is virtually certain to become an annual fixture, according to Mr. John T. McGovern, who has returned from England, whither he went as one of the officials accompanying the Princeton-Cornell track team.

While there Mr. McGovern conferred with British Rugby authorities. He said that he had found the English players pleased with the reception accorded them when they came over here last spring, and that they were enthusiastic about continuing the matches.

Mr. McGovern talked with Commander S. F. Cooper, secretary of the Rugby Union, Mr. James Baxter, former president of the Rugby Union, Mr. T. M. Heywood, former captain of the Cambridge fifteen, Sir James Leigh-Wood, chairman of the Empire Games, Mr. E. R. Bridson, chairman of the Oxford Rugby Union, Mr. E. P. Hewitson, honorary secretary of the Oxford Athletic Association, and Lord Beborough.

All expressed confidence that England would send a team, probably composed of Oxford and Cambridge players, to the United States next spring.—Reuter.

AMERICAN TRACK MEN WIN EASILY

Japanese Score Only One First

Fukuoka, Oct. 8. The visiting American track and field stars won eight of the nine events to-day at the conclusion of their final two-day athletic meet in Japan.

Oshima, who captured the hop, step and jump with a distance of 15.61 metres, was the only Japanese winner.

Glenn Cunningham, great American miler, won the 1,500 metres event in four minutes, 3.6 seconds.

Charles Hornbostel, of Indiana, stopped the 400 metres in 49.6 seconds and Ralph Metcalfe, the sprint star from Marquette University, did the 200 metres in 21.4 seconds.

Dunn put the shot 15.49 metres. The visitors captured seven of the eight events the opening day. In their visit to Japan they were victorious also at Tokyo, Nagoya and Dairen but lost at Osaka to the Japanese.

The game was in an excellent spirit, with Shanghai worthy winners. Nevertheless we have a right to feel a little disappointed that our team did not make a better showing.

DEVELOPMENT OF LADIES HOCKEY ASSOCIATION

FOLLOWING FOOTSTEPS OF THE MEN

INTERPORT INVITATION TO SHANGHAI

(By "Bully-Off")

THE Hongkong Ladies' Hockey Association, like the Hongkong Hockey Association which governs the game amongst men, has not let the grass grow under its feet. Although only formed at the close of last season it has already taken upon itself full responsibility for controlling the sport among ladies in a manner which cannot but be admired.

THE Ladies' Association, immediately it was formed, turned to Interports and it is planning to note that they have already been in communication with Shanghai and have extended an invitation to the northern port to play the local representative side here later in the year. Their reply is eagerly awaited.

I AM informed that it is impossible for the Hongkong side to travel to Shanghai this season, but they are hoping to be able to raise sufficient funds to enable them to travel north next year. It is therefore up to all Clubs to contribute their quota to make this possible. Interports are eagerly but are without doubt a great stimulant to improving any game.

NOT to be outdone by their male sports fellows the ladies have arranged a seven-a-side tournament to be played on December 8 for a cup which has been offered by Mrs. T. E. Pearce, first president of the H.K.L.H.A. This will serve a very useful purpose in that it will give the selection committee an opportunity of noting players who are good individually, for the players will have much more to do on their own than they would if playing in a full side. In addition it is good practice; something the ladies need if they are going to give Shanghai a good game. There is no doubt that competitive hockey has been responsible for raising the standard of the game among the ladies to its present height, and it should be encouraged at every turn.

OWING to the re-construction of the Marina grounds during the summer months the Indian Regiments have not been able to play as much hockey as they would have liked during the hot weather. The grounds are now in a perfect condition however and should play extremely well and accurate this season.

I WOULD like here to draw attention to the necessity of playing with a stick which conforms to the regulations. If a stick does not pass through the two inch gauge the player can be prohibited by the umpire from playing. I have not yet heard of a case in Hongkong where umpires have made it a rule to examine sticks before commencement of play, but it is well within their function to do so and forbid a player with an illegal stick from playing.

THERE are many sticks sold in this Colony which are stamped as complying with the standards of the International Hockey Board which on examination are found to be outside the ruling. A good deal of this over-size stick business is probably due not to any deliberate intent, but to sheer carelessness in not gauging sticks before they leave the manufacturer. Players should examine their sticks before buying them.

BESIDES the usual list of British International games this year the English Hockey Association has arranged a full international with Holland to be played on April 6 in Holland. For the venues of the England v Wales and England v Ireland matches, to be played on March 16 and 20 respectively the Council of the E.H.A. has decided to play both outside London and the South.

THE following will represent Radio Coomes in a friendly hockey match against the St. Andrew's Hockey Club on Monday at Caroline Hill b.o. at 6.15 p.m.:—U. B. Souza; Parduman Singh, J. S. Grewal, L. B. Kitchell, M. H. Hassan, J. M. Tavares; M. de Souza, W. J. Chan-son, Gurbachan Singh, Lo So, F. A. Kemp (Captain). Reserves:—R. Ayock, H. Bux, A. Spary.

THE Radio Indians will field the following team against the University on Tuesday next, at Caroline Hill b.o. at 6.15 p.m.:—Gurdial Singh; Parduman Singh, J. S. Grewal; Karnail Singh, Mohinder Singh, Channan Singh; Surjit Singh, Gurbachan Singh, Avtar Singh, Jagreet Singh, Attar Singh; Reserves:—Bhagwan Singh, Jangeer Singh, Tejinder Singh, G. S. Pardesh.

How Hongkong Cricket Team Impressed Critics

INTERPORTERS INTERVIEWED ON ARRIVAL IN SHANGHAI

Shanghai, Oct. 9.
Hongkong's Eleven arrived in Shanghai yesterday still suffering from the effects of their harrowing experience in the violent storm, which they ran into a day out of Hongkong.

Immediately on their arrival, the team was conducted to the Shanghai Cricket Club headquarters and after a short rest, went out for a half-hour's knock before lunch.

During the afternoon the team again practiced, but put up only a poor showing, the majority of the players still showing the effect of the rough weather they had experienced.

Varied accounts of the storm were given by members in an interview at the Cricket Club yesterday, but it was generally agreed that the storm was one of the worst which had been felt on the coast for many years.

SKIPPER NON-COMMITTAL

Asked what he thought of his team's chances in the Interport, which begins on Wednesday morning, H. Owen Hughes, the Colony skipper, was non-committal. "I wouldn't like to forecast anything just yet," he said.

When another member of the team was questioned, Owen Hughes interrupted. "Don't tell them anything," he joked. "We don't want them to know anything about our strength—or weakness."

One of the visitors told The Shanghai Times that the Colony's strength was in its bowling department.

MINU THEIR STAR

"We have six good bowlers," he declared, "and if they can't do the trick, we can bring on another three. Minu will be our biggest threat to Shanghai's batsmen."

During the afternoon's knock Minu took four overs and was hit only twice near the tapes. The rest of

Hockey Club's New Rules Issued

AFFILIATED TO HOME BODY

Shanghai, Oct. 9.
It was announced by the President of the Shanghai Hockey Association at the annual general meeting last night that affiliation had been secured with the Home Association, and in consequence of this, a new set of rules had been made and issued to the representatives of the members' perusal.

Play will open on November 17, although the Race Course grounds will be available for play from October 13. This will give players ample time for practice.

The first division will have the same entries as last year, and playing fields will be at the Race Course and Hongkew Park. One new team has applied for admittance in the second division.

By popular demand, Mr. W. G. Clarke, President of the Association was unanimously re-elected for the post again, while the Vice-Presidency will be shared by Messrs. A. J. Barson and R. J. Whitehead.

The General Committee elected was:—Lt. Eubank, Messrs. J. S. Kenyon, K. M. Pate, and H. Wetzel. Secretary, A. H. May. Treasurer, H. Melchers.

A proposition by H. Melchers regarding the providing of nets by the Association, costs to be shared by the various clubs, was put back to allow the representatives to refer the matter to the members before passing the motion.

BEACH CLUB GIRL

By MABEL McELLIOTT

CHAPTER XXIX

The long, cold, dreary winter dragged on. And presently the dreary day when the light was golden instead of gray, and white clouds scudded across the surface of a sky of heaven's own blue. And there was the feeling of spring in the air.

Boots had seen Isabel twice, during the winter. She was starved for news of her own people. When Isabel had greeted her, enthusiastically, one day across the counter, Boots had been quite simply glad to see her. She had made no pretences, offered no explanations, for her being in Lucy's. Isabel had said something haltingly about being "terribly sorry" to hear about Russ's death. Boots had thanked her simply. Even now, when she heard his name and people spoke of his going, it didn't seem quite real. It was all part of an old dream.

Isabel had brought her news of the younger set in Larchmont. Sylvia, Isabel contributed, had been home for Christmas vacation, "looking stunning" in a pink coat. ("But imagine," Isabel had interposed, "imagine a pink coat on a girl her age!") And somehow this particular comment had made the old days seem very far away, the old struggles and heartaches unreal. Boots felt she had grown up. She was living a real life now. The big question of whether to spend 20 cents or a quarter for lunch, the saving for a new pair of shoes, the effort to send one's sales totals up so that the end of the week brought approbation, or better still, a raise in one's pay envelope—all these were real. The other matters, parties at the Ritz, diamond wrist watches, silver fox scarves and tap dancing lessons, were so much embroidery. Nice but relatively unimportant.

Isabel herself, though sweet and friendly and confiding as ever, seemed very young, very frivolous to Boots now. But she brought news of her mother, and that was important. Mrs. Raelburn, Isabel reported, was well. "She misses you dreadfully still. Why don't you go up and see her?"

Boots shook her head, consulting. No, she would not go until they sent for her. It was not stubbornness that held her back but pride. Her mother was well—was going about. She must be happy. It was enough to know that. Later—much later—she would see her.

And now spring had come to a waiting world. Last spring she had been so careless, so unaware. Now, in the span of a single year, she had known love and heartbreak and her whole life had been changed. She had not known what work was, nor how one struggled for the mere essentials of living. Now she knew. Perhaps that was why mention of Sylvia Rivers who had had so much to do, really, with her breaking away from the narrowness and safety of home, woke responses only vaguely. Sylvia had been cruel to her, but that was because Sylvia knew so little about life. The struggle for existence had never touched Sylvia.

"I don't hate her any more," she said candidly to Isabel's question. "No, it was another girl, dark-haired, statuesque, who figured in Boots' life this spring. Kay Chilling-ford. She did not speak of her to Isabel. Isabel would not understand. Kay who had everything, was everything sweet and clever and desirable, occasionally reminded Boots of the heritage she had lost. It was not that she saw Kay very often; she did not. But whenever Edward Van Selver took Boots to tea or to the theatre Kay's name peppered his conversation. "I think you're in love with her," Boots had said to Edward with a slow smile one evening as they dawdled over tall drinks in a corner of a big hotel lounge faced in walls of chromium, braced against seats upholstered in dove-colored leather. Edward grinned. "Me? With Kay? You're cr-crazy, girl. Kay's not my type."

Boots considered this, her eyes drifting over the well-dressed crowd thronging the narrow corridor. She was wearing a new frock to-night—her new workaday frock of black crepe with a frill of sheerest organdie. Her skin had a positive transparency about it and her pale-gold hair, brushed into a shining cap, feathered about the small black hat she wore. "She's—she's extraordinary," she admitted aloud. "She's got everything."

"Hasn't she, though?" agreed Edward with enthusiasm. "Smart and beautiful and all that rot. Did you know she speaks five languages?"

"She would," Boots muttered under her breath.

"What did you say?" Edward was nodding to a group of rather noisy young people milling about the next table. "Nothing," Boots, glancing at her reflection in the mirror opposite, felt suddenly dull and uninteresting. How silly of her to be rejoicing over this cheap frock, bought in Lucy's "Inexpensive dress department." Kay had half a dozen black frocks, each more adroitly cut than the other. And Kay could speak French and German and Swedish and—Russian perhaps. She was ignorant and untutored. Kay knew just what to do, just what to say, in exactly the right tone.

"What's Denis doing with himself these days?" Edward wanted to know, signalling for his check. "If we want to see that Garbo picture we'd better be hanging along," he added briskly. Edward was a restless soul. He had to be going places, doing things all the time. He liked the little fair-haired girl at his side. She was sweet, he told himself. There was something darn sweet about her.

Boots haven't seen him for ages. "Smart and beautiful and all that rot," very casual, Denis had, in effect, "practically dropped" her, she told herself. Never mind, one of these days she would be a big buyer for a smart shop. She would go abroad... she would learn how to order head waiters about... Even Kay, with her cool glance, should not daunt her then.

Edward tucked her hand in the crook of his arm. "How's for walking across town? It's at Fiftieth Street."

"Oh, I'd love that!" Edward told the doorman he would pick his car up later. Very good, Mr. Van Selver; yes, the big blue one. I know it, sure I do.

"You're cute, do you know it?" Edward told her contentedly as she matched her smaller steps to his great ones.

Boots reflected that she liked Edward a lot. He was pleasant to be with. He made you forget your troubles. His conversation was the light talk of the day. He knew all the newest restaurants, the latest catchwords. Door men, elevator starters, the captains in the big restaurants all had an expansive air and a wide smile for the rich young man.

The big motion picture theatre was crowded. A tall cadet in a braided and buttoned uniform led them across the chaste, simple foyer. There were modern pieces of sculpture, angled, creamy white, all about. There were deep piled eastern rugs on the marble floor. Somewhere a great organ boomed and trilled and thundered.

"In the back. We like to sit in the back," Edward said firmly. And presently they were seated side by side in deep upholstered chairs, the screen a bluish square of light half a city block away.

"Nice!" Edward's big hand found her small hand, gave it a friendly pressure, released it. Boots settled back, sighing with exquisite relief. The big, cool, vaulted place, with its dimmed lights, its hushed and waiting throng, suited her mood exactly. Presently the film began to wheel past. A story of love, poignantly simple, devastating. The girl found her eyes wet with unwilling tears. Why, this was what she didn't want to be reminded of—how overwhelming a force love could be. Only it wasn't Russ, the picture reminded her of. The tall, disdainful young man in the hussar's uniform, keeping his cool, aloof profile turned toward the watching thousands, was ever so little like Denis.

"I must be mad," she told herself angrily, with a little shrug of disgust. "Denis is certainly nothing to me. He was merely kind. I—I didn't even like him at first. Besides he belongs to Kay."

The picture had played an odd trick upon her. She could not shake Denis' image from her mind. And beside her Edward Van Selver, big and brown and wholesome and rich, squared about in his seat to watch her. Edward, too, was thinking new thoughts. The girl who had been just a delightful playmate for odd hours now presented herself to him in a new light. How lovely she was in this half light with that mysterious, provocative little smile playing about her mouth! Edward touched her warm hand again and it remained in his own as simply, as confidently as a child's might.

"She's darn sweet," Edward told himself again. But the words had a new meaning now. He felt an urge to protect, to guard her from the world. Poor kid, she was having a hard time of it, wasn't she? And not complaining, either.

The web of fate was tightening around them both. Boots, brooding over the memory of a dark, disdained face; Edward in whose mind a slow dream was taking shape at last. A dream of a little stone house in the country, some place and down and horses, roses tumbling over stone walls, and in the background a slim, graceful figure crowned by golden hair.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

Solution to Previous Contract Problem

By W. E. McKenney

Well, I have had opportunity to read some more of Lieut. Col. Walter Butler's book on "How to Play Contract Bridge." The colonel makes a grand effort to convince his readers that the Americans know little or nothing about contract bridge.

However, he does have some fine points in his book and some good hands. He describes a very fine Deschappelles' coup in the hand I present to-day.

The bidding shown is American according to the Sims system. The three bid asker partner to show an ace, and even though West interferes with a three spade bid, partner properly shows the ace of diamonds with his bid of four diamonds.

When South bids five clubs, he is asking his partner for the king of clubs. Partner, not having it, can respond with five diamonds if he holds the king. Holding neither king, his response is five hearts, and that's where the bidding should stop.

The Play.

West opens the king of spades, which South ruffs with the eight of trump. The nine of trump is overtaken in dummy with the jack and a spade returned and ruffed with the ten of trump.

Declarer enters dummy again by playing the four of hearts and overtaking with the five. The third spade is ruffed, the three of trump is overtaken in dummy with the six and the last spade ruffed.

Now declarer plays a diamond, and here is where West's defence play comes in. West plays the jack of diamonds, the queen, holding the trick in the dummy.

The ace is cashed and West makes the Deschappelles' coup by throwing his king of diamonds on the ace, thereby creating an entry for partner with the ten of diamonds, which will permit him to lead through declarer's ace-queen of clubs.

If West had retained his king of diamonds, the declarer would have thrown him into the lead and West would have been forced to lead either a club or a spade, which declarer could ruff in dummy and discard his losing queen of clubs.

Today's Contract Problem
South is playing the contract at three no trump. West opens the king of clubs. Should West cash the ace of clubs, or lead a small club?

CONSERVING H.K. SAND

DEPLETED BY JUNK TRADERS RAIDS

An Ordinance to protect the sand supplies of the Colony and to regulate the sale of sand is shortly to be introduced in the Legislative Council.

The main purpose of the Ordinance is to conserve the Colony's sand deposits which have recently become depleted chiefly through unauthorised removal, it being extremely difficult to exercise effective control over junkmen engaged in the sand trade.

Clause 3 therefore vests in the Governor the exclusive privilege of collecting, storing and selling sand from benches or unleased land in the Colony.

Clause 4 empowers the Governor to prescribe the measures necessary for the working of the monopoly.

By Clause 5 the Director of Public Works is authorised to issue permits for the collection and removal of sand, it being intended that a small fleet of junks shall be engaged, given distinctive marks and employed solely in sand carrying for the Government.

Clause 6 prohibits the carriage of sand by water except by ocean-going steamers even although the sand may have come from outside the Colony.

Clause 8 requires all proceeds from the sale of sand to be paid into revenue.

CHINA'S FLAG OVER ANGANCHI

VOLUNTEERS MARK DOUBLE TENTH

Tientsin, Oct. 12.

A delayed message from Changchun states that Changchun and Mukden passed the Chinese National Day with comparative quiet under the strict vigilance of the Japanese military authorities, although anti-Manchukuo activities on a minor scale were evident in other places. Pamphlets urging the people of Manchuria not to forget the "Double Tenth" and the recovery of the lost land were found in the streets in Changchun and Mukden, but no arrests were made by the police.

A Government banking firm at Panshen, Kirin, was raided by a party of anti-Manchukuo volunteers early on the morning of October 10 with the result that the firm lost over $100,000, and three Manchukuo policemen were killed.

ANGANCHI TAKEN.
On the same day, 600 Chinese volunteers attacked the city of Anganchi, Heilungkiang, and as the small number of Manchukuo police stationed in the city was powerless to offer effective resistance the invaders were able to secure control of the city for some time, during which they ordered the flying of the Chinese flag over the city in celebration of the Double Tenth.

They effected a timely withdrawal on the approach of Japanese reinforcement.—Central News.

DOLLAR DROPS SLIGHTLY

BUT MARKET QUITE STEADY

With an expected slight reaction in silver prices in London, the Hongkong dollar opened to-day at 1s. 7.7/8d., a drop of 1/8th on yesterday's rate.

The local market is, however, quite steady. Inter-bank business opened at about 1s. 8.1/8d. and was later done at 1s. 8.5/16d. Shanghai opened nominal.

Silver was down 1/16th in London, where speculators bought, and sold, and China sold on an uncertain market.
